

PayPal doubles the fee, forgets to tell customers can computer programming help the world

If you are a PayPal client, you may be surprised next time you look at your account.

From personal accounts, a commission of 2.9% + 30 cents for receiving payments for "goods" or "services", which were previously free were charged. The official announcement of the change was not done.